Training Partners wins Cisco Learning Partner Excellence in Innovation award

Singapore, 24 November 2011 – Training Partners, a leading IT infrastructure learning and development provider and a Cisco Learning Solutions Partner, is the proud recipient of the 2011 Cisco Learning Partner Excellence in Innovation Award for the Asia Pacific region. Cisco unveiled the winners on 9 November at its APJC Learning Partner Summit 2012 in Bali, Indonesia.

"The Excellence in Innovation Award for FY11 APAC & Greater China goes to Training Partners. Training Partners is Learning Partner Specialist with presence in nine countries. They are always at the forefront of innovation developing new ways of delivering training and positioning authorized, customized training as key values. They are truly deserving of the 'Excellence in Innovation' Award FY11," said Andres Sintes, Global Director, WW Learning Partner Channel, Cisco Systems.

Best-in-class companies recognise the value of training and development as part of their overall strategy to win in the markets they compete in. They recognise that the best run organisations are those that utilise available resources, including ensuring that skills are properly trained and updated on a regular basis, reflecting the dynamic nature of the business environment.

"As a leading IT training services provider in the region, this award underscores our continuous effort to provide innovative and holistic training services, both to the students and their organisations," commented Esther Wong, General Manager, Training Partners. "We work very closely with our clients to help them harness the full potential of their organisation by developing highly customised human capital development programmes. Our success can be attributed to our ability to listen to our clients' needs and build the right programmes to help them achieve their business goals faster, by enabling their workforce through targeted skills development roadmaps."

The Cisco Excellence in Innovation Award is given to Learning Partners who have demonstrated innovative ways of offering trainings and using training as differentiators. Recipients are Learning Partners who exhibit outstanding quality, creativity, efficiency, and cost-effectiveness while adding value to training delivery in innovative ways thus increasing customer satisfaction.

Training Partners has been the recipient of numerous technology partner awards. In March this year, it received the Cisco Learning Partner of the Year award, APAC & Greater China. Cisco Learning Partner of the Year awards are designed to recognise exemplary Learning Partners that demonstrate best-in-class business practices and serve as a model to the industry.
